“Immigrant families have integrated themselves into our communities, establishing deep roots. Whenever they have settled, they have made lasting contributions to the economic vitality and diversity of our communities and our nation. Our economy depends on these hard-working, taxpaying workers.” - Senator Edward M. Kennedy

With more than a decade of solid experience playing key roles in some of the world’s leading immigration law firms and international global mobility consulting groups, Oliver is uniquely qualified to provide US legal advice in all areas of US immigration law and related global mobility services. He has extensive experience in assisting organizations, from start-ups to Fortune 100 companies across varying industries, in developing and maintaining successful global immigration and global mobility programs.
